

Guide to Confederate Cemetery

Oak Hill Cemetery

Newnan, Georgia

Preface

To reach the rank of Eagle Scout, a scout must plan, develop, and give leadership to other scouts in a service project that is helpful to a religious institution, school, or his community. This guide to the Confederate Cemetery in Newnan, Georgia was my Eagle Scout project. My interest in this particular project came about in two different ways.

First, my family lives in one of the oldest homes in Newnan. The owner of the house in the 1860's was a Captain in the Coweta Rangers and served in the Confederate army during the Civil War. Our house was also used by General Joe Wheeler as his headquarters during the Battle of Browns Mill. So I have always had an interest in the local history. Second, a few years ago my grandmother helped create a history guide for her local cemetery. When my family visited her in Moultrie, she took us on the tour and I realized that there was a lot of history and information in a cemetery.

When the time came to choose a project, I thought this would be a very interesting one. It was also one I could share with other people and hopefully provide some interesting information. I have tried to be as detailed as possible with the information I found in this cemetery.

History

In 1868, the Ladies Memorial Association of Newnan began marking the Confederate graves in Oak Hill Cemetery. Later the United Daughters of the Confederacy began taking care of the graves. In 1950, Congressman Sid Camp helped get new markers for the graves. Today there are 268 graves designated as the "Confederate Cemetery". The graves mark the resting place of soldiers from the each of the Confederate States.

The historical marker in the Confederate Cemetery in Newnan reads as follows:

"Here are buried 268 Confederate Soldiers most of whom died of wounds or Disease in the several Confederate hospitals located in Newnan. Some were killed in the battle fought south of here, 30 July 1864. Due to the efficiency of the local hospitals, only two are "Unknown." Most of these men were veterans of many hard fought battles. Every state in the Confederacy is represented in these burials. Also, buried here are two Revolutionary War Soldiers, and one from the First World War."
